

Keeping you informed on The Triangle monument

The design of The Triangle clock monument, in association with The Green Lanes Business Association (GLBA), has almost been finalised. It is still subject to minor alterations but we want to keep you informed of our progress.

The design is based on the architectural features of the buildings surrounding The Triangle. Our aim is to bring some of these features down to a height that can be enjoyed by all at closer range. The design of the clock will therefore be sympathetic to its surroundings and will blend in beautifully.

Architectural features

There are seven main features that we have focussed on.

- 1) The shell detail at the top of Triangle House.
- 2) The octagonal shaped column detail which joins each building to its neighbour
- 3) A scroll pattern – which is prevalent in many of the buildings within the area.
- 4) The 1904 typographical design from the HSBC building will be replicated to say 2014.
- 5) The ribbed column detail will appear on the four narrower sides of the base.
- 6) Two floral details will appear on two opposing base sides.
- 7) Lastly, the clock face will be three sided – to represent The Triangle.

Costas Georgiou, the Chairman of GLBA, has worked closely with a local graphic designer, Karen Cox of Absolutely Kareen, to produce the design for the clock. The monument will be made and assembled with the aid and skill of Dave Plummer at Triangle Metal Works – based a stone's throw away from where the clock will reside. Mark Leaver, Town Centre Manager of the Enfield Business and Retailers Association has also been an integral part of the project.
